So, you think you look like this rock star ...

Some musicians resent being told they sound like someone else, but to a tribute band, this is high praise indeed. 2U, for instance, really hopes audiences think it sounds like, you guessed it, U2. Lead vocalist Brian Desveaux, guitarist and vocalist Joseph Cumia, and bassists Pat Rotolo and Denis Perry channel Bono and the boys tonight at 10 at the Grand Canal. And if you don't come for the music, at least come for the Bono lookalike contest — with a cash prize. Tickets: $15 ($10 in advance). Grand Canal, 57 Canal St., 617-523-1112. www.notu2.com [June Wulff]

MUSIC

Beyond the bar

The Boston rock outfit [munk], which plays rock anthems that have been featured on “The Sopranos” and “Charmed,” brings its power chords to the masses in more ways than one. You can go the traditional route and see the band play at Bill's Bar tonight at 9. Or you can hear and see the performance at www.secondlife.com as soon as the site can post it. Or you can check out a podcast of the concert at www.accidenthash.com or listen to it on Sirius Satellite Radio — both at 8:30 p.m. Monday. Call us old-fashioned, but we recommend just going to the show. Tickets: $5. Bill's Bar, 5 Lansdowne St., 617-421-9678. www.billsbar.com

SHOPPING TIP OF THE DAY

Brooching the subject

Anyone who still thinks that brooches are just for grandmothers hasn't been to So Good Jewelry. These funky, sparkly baubles are a great way to add a touch of sophistication to your wardrobe. And they don't have to go on your lapel: You can wear one in your hair, dress up a pair of jeans by adding one to a pocket, or pin one to your purse. With prices as low as $12, it's tough to go wrong. And if you're not into brooches, don't worry — So Good also sells bracelets, earrings, and headbands. So Good Jewelry: 443 Washington St., 617-542-0573; 349 Newbury St., 617-259-1053. www.sogoodjewelry.com [Maria Fontes]
